What is San Diego Health Connect?

San Diego Health Connect is our community's medical information exchange. Many health care providers, including San Diego American Indian Health Center, utilize electronic medical records, which are digital or computerized versions of patients' medical charts. If you visited multiple health care providers, you may have been responsible for keeping track of and transferring medical records to each caregiver.

Now, with the introduction of San Diego Health Connect, San Diego American Indian Health Center caregivers can easily and more quickly view your health history electronically from other participating health care providers throughout the San Diego community. Having more complete and current information available at your doctor visit or in an emergency gives caregivers secure and timely access to information like laboratory and imaging results, medications, allergies, known drug reactions, diagnoses, procedures and immunizations. The electronic exchange is designed to further enhance the health care experience by eliminating the likelihood of undergoing redundant tests and procedures, and it helps doctors make more informed treatment decisions.

Is Information Shared Through San Diego Health Connect Secure?

Yes. San Diego American Indian Health Center and all health care organizations participating in San Diego Health Connect are required to meet state and federal laws to protect the privacy and security of health and personal information. All providers participating in San Diego Health Connect agree to only access medical records as needed to provide or coordinate care. San Diego Health Connect only facilitates exchange of the data and will not store patient health information.
